youmatch: New iOS-App is fun and improves your memory

On 12th of September the time has come: Berlin-based developers Tom Rothe and Armin Hempel are launching a new game available through Apple's App Store: youmatch, the memory game against a ticking clock, improves dexterity and memory, but – above all – it is a lot of fun!

You can build individual sets from snapshots: Take ten pictures from your library and create your own challenge. Furthermore, share these sets with your friends and family. Sets of family portraits, holiday and party pictures can be shared with your dearest friends and family simply via email.

youmatch brings a lot of achievements and leaderboards for intermediate and advanced players. Challenge players all over the world via Apple's Game Center.

youmatch will be available in the App Store from September 12th for an introductory price of 99 Cents.

you can find a complete press kit including screen shots, pictures in natural surroundings and press releases at www.youmatch.net. write a mail to ask@youmatch.net for questions and support.
